It is a privilege to come alongside students in their formative teen years doing life with them and pointing them towards Jesus. My husband and I have enjoyed our 22 years leading jr. high, high school, and college ministries and still believe it to be one of the best jobs in the world. As parents of three teenagers ourselves, we are invested in the important work you do as youth pastors and leaders.

Coaching is a wonderful tool in discovering how God made us and how to use our gifts in His kingdom work. It creates an awareness for what's driving us in our life and ministries, so we may better align ourselves with God's heart for us and the people we work with. Coaching will address choices and actions, but also dive below the surface to reveal unhealthy beliefs or fears we are carrying, enabling us to move towards freedom and living out God's promises for us. It can be both fun and piercing, empowering and exposing, but it always lands in what God is up to now in us.

My husband, Travis, and I have been married 23 years, and continue to enjoy leading high school youth ministry, mentoring young adults, and doing premarital counseling with engaged couples. Our greatest joy and team effort is parenting our three kids: an eighteen year old daughter and two boys, both sixteen and fourteen. They can equally be our greatest challenge as we wrestle out loving and guiding them towards Jesus and what the journey exposes in all of us along the way. We love to laugh, take epic camping trips each summer, paddle board our local lakes, and hike the many trails here in beautiful northern California.

I look forward to partnering with you in uncovering what God is up to in your life and where He's taking you in your ministry!
