Transformational Generosity

By Charmaine Williams,
Regional Stewardship Officer

In the last Western magazine titled, "Transformational Generosity," Dr. Randy Roberts called believers to look at philanthropy as more than a "financial transaction that benefits a particular cause" and to, instead, view giving as a transformational exercise of growing in Christ-likeness. If you are struggling with this concept, you are not alone! It is difficult, at times, to comprehend what this means tangibly. Isn't serving and donating about helping a school, church or organization meet their financial goals or about discerning where God is specifically directing you irrespective of the perceived needs? Perhaps, the answer is "yes" to both questions. Nearing our fiscal year end, our job is not to pressure you into volunteering or giving to Western out of obligation. Rather, we want to encourage you to step out in faith to advance God's kingdom work no matter where He's directing you. Are you feeling overwhelmed by everyone's requests for support? Our stewardship team can certainly coach you around your specific philanthropic goals and action steps. (My contact information is on the next page). Let us be a resource to you in your decision making process irrespective of your allocation of generosity. You may also make a donation online. Be sure to specify which campus or cause. We regularly thank God for your prayers, service and financial support. We pray for deeper steps of faith and God's provision for our entire Western family.
